FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

At Hindustan International School, we proudly align with Sustainable Development Goal 13: Climate Action, by nurturing environmentally conscious global citizens who recognize the urgency of addressing climate change. We believe that education must not only foster knowledge but also inspire action to protect our planet's future.

From an early age, our students are encouraged to understand the science behind climate change and to adopt climate-friendly habits. Through hands-on learning such as climate awareness campaigns, energy-saving initiatives, and tree-planting drives, they explore the impact of carbon footprints and the importance of reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

Our commitment extends beyond textbooks. Students actively engage in climate action projects, lead awareness rallies on global warming, and collaborate with communities to promote resilience in the face of environmental challenges—transforming awareness into tangible action.

Whether it's creating green school zones, promoting sustainable transportation, or monitoring air quality as citizen scientists, our learners are equipped with the knowledge and motivation to be climate champions. They also take part in model climate summits, simulate policy decisions, and propose local solutions with global relevance.

At Hindustan International School, climate action is not a one-time initiative—it is a way of thinking, a culture of responsibility, and a promise to safeguard our environment for future generations.
